How to access VoiceThread

Note: Access VoiceThread in OAKS from the VoiceThread at CofC widget on any course homepage.

VoiceThread allows you to upload a variety of media including pictures, videos, and PowerPoint slides.

Professors can narrate the presentation by creating voice or video comments on each slide. Students may also add comments on the slides which allow the presentation to become interactive.

Accessing VoiceThread from the My Course(s) homepage:

1. Once in OAKS, select the Course Selector icon (see screenshot)

2. Once you have found the course title, click the course of your choice from the drop-down list (see screenshot).

Welcome to OAKS Online Orientation Course!

Welcome to OAKS Online Orientation Course, Fake!

This is an interactive course which will introduce you to online learning and how to use the College of Charleston (CofC) OAKS learning management system. This orientation shouldn't take you very long to complete. You may break up the work into several small sessions if you'd like.

What is a passing score?

You must score at least 80% on the OAKS Online Orientation quiz to successfully complete the orientation.

Why should I complete this orientation?

If you are enrolled in an online or hybrid course for the first time, you should complete this orientation because it will show you the basics of using OAKS, which will help you be more successful in your course(s).

What do I do next?

Click on "Content" in the upper navigation bar. Read the Course Overview then follow the instructions given as you work through each module. If you took the quiz because you felt you already knew OAKS, and made an 80% or higher, please go to Other Tools - Survey and take the quick survey.

Thank you for your time and have a great semester!
