African American women began the suffrage movement in South Carolina. This is their story.

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of South Carolina presents Sins of Omission: The Rollin Sisters and the SC Suffrage movement by Valinda Littlefield, associate professor of History
Monday, August 10, 2 p.m. on the Zoom app
In connection with the 100-year anniversary of women’s suffrage

Learn more and register at go.sc.edu/CASwebinars