British Gothic Literature

What better place to study the British obsession with Gothic monsters? We will read tales of horror by Jane Austen, Emily Brontë, R.L. Stevenson, Oscar Wilde and Arthur Conan Doyle. We will explore the gloomy moors and dark city streets where they set their stories. We will visit art museums, attend the theater, stroll through urban parks, and walk down village lanes.

This class fulfills requirements for English major and minor, Gen-Ed. humanities, and Honors College Interdisciplinary and Honors Immersed classes
