GIVE TO WHAT YOU LOVE

LCWA would like thank and congratulate everyone who gave during the Give To What You Love campaign. LCWA reached its goal of 40 donors! A total of 43 donors gave to various funds and programs throughout the month of February. Faculty, staff, students and alumni were encouraged to give to the fund that was meaningful to them. By investing in the College, they're helping support students and the programs that make an impact on their lives. Learn more here.

LINGUISTICS CONFERENCE

The 84th Southeastern Conference on Linguistics (SECOL) took place March 8-11, 2017 on campus. The theme was "Underrepresented and minoritized linguistic varieties in the Lowcountry and beyond." SECOL is dedicated to advancing the study of language in all aspects. This annual meeting provides a venue for reading and discussing scholarly papers. See more here.

TRANSFORMING CULTURAL PERSPECTIVES

The annual Classical Charleston lecture series took place in early February. In typical fashion, the speakers represented some of the leading voices on the power of historical writing to form (and transform) cultural perspectives. Over the past six years, the Department of Classics and a variety of partners have brought leading scholars to campus to speak on topics of interest to the wider community.
