Dear Mr. President,

My name is Dameli and I am from Kazakhstan. I moved to New York City this summer. I'm in 5th grade at Dwight School.

I think the biggest problem in schools is bullying. Sometimes other kids bully you because of where you from, or your religion, or maybe because you don't speak English very well, when you live in America. I experienced bullying. One girl from my class bullied me because I do not speak English very well (she is not American, but she speaks English better than I do).

This is problem because when someone bullies you, after that you don't feel as confident as you did. That makes you think bad about yourself, and other people think bad about you.

I think the best way to fix this problem is by teachers talking to kids that bully others. People need to understand that by bullying does not make anything better, only worse.

Sincerely,

Dameli Kainarbekova
