

One day Montag walks home and meets a girl that was different from everybody else. She was very curious and always talked and thought about everything. She was Montag's new neighbor, and she lived right across from his house. Montag met her everyday from that day on, and had she started to change Montag's perspective and opinion on everyday life and also even on books! Pg. 2