

Bluest Eye Themes

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

Social alienation can lead to depression and madness.

Love and sex are not the same thing.

People who are helpless often seek power in order to feel better about themselves.

An individual's actions can often be traced to his past experiences.

You cannot judge a person without looking at his past.

It is dangerous to reduce a person, place, or culture to a single story.

We are all responsible for one another.