EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Employees are more and more likely to organize their personal lives using a smart telephone. They bring this expectation to the workplace and want to use their telephones to organize their work life too. This intention is frequently called Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) and is causing IT departments some concern. In this paper, we discuss some of the benefits and detriments of BYOD and also discuss how some organizations are addressing the issue.

Keywords: BYOD (Bring Your Own Device), Smartphones in the Workplace, MDM (Mobile Device Management)