Bankruptcy: A Stakeholder Analysis
William M. Fitzpatrick, Villanova University Samuel A. DiLullo, Villanova University

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The financial failure of major financial institutions and automotive manufacturers in the United States has been the flashpoint for new discussions on the role of government and organizational stakeholders in the management of corporate bankruptcies. Through creation/use of the BARONS paradigm, this paper discusses the major legal rights and processes that can be used by bankruptcy stakeholders for purposes of protecting their economic interests when debtor organizations become insolvent.
