Teams storyboard a narrative that combines their memories to elicit a certain emotional response in the viewers. Individually, write a short self reflection to respond: What do you remember and why?; what was the most effective technique to recollect a memory: recognition or recall? What does your collection of memories express about your identity? How are memories related to your body? How does the physiology of your body remembers? Then, work together to select the most significant of your memories, and create a video that represents both your experiences.
