

Fury the Bat Chapter 2

By Than

He looked around the cave fast, but he couldn't find them. "Man, I miss my parents," said Fury. Memories became flashing back to Fury. The memory of when his dad and him were flying and he sneezed on his wing. Fury thought it was funny, but his dad didn't. The memory when he first started to fly and he felt the wind rush into his face. The memory when he killed his first prey. His mom and dad were really proud of him.

Then, there were some memories about his father and his mother fighting. They had an argument and mom hit dad in the wing. Dad "accidentally" fell and Fury and his mom laughed so hard. The other memory was when dad hit mom out of the cave and she fell into a butterfly. The butterfly was surprised and got injured.

Fury fell over on his knees and started crying. "Crying isn't going to help me," he said. He was angry and sad. He came out of the cave and destroyed a small rock. He was losing his temper. He finally calmed down and said, "I'm going to find my parents,"
