WHY IN GOD'S NAME MAY NOT WE, AS ELSE THE GREEKS,

have a kingdom of our own language?

Edmund Spenser, 1580

In a sense, this course is about how English writers built a kingdom of their own language.

We will read British literary works from about 900 to 1660, with an emphasis on questioning the texts and each other, and by exploring the critical lenses through which medieval and early modern literary scholars make sense of the periods' art.

Our primary literary texts will be Beowulf,
Geoffrey Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, Thomas
More's Utopia, Edmund Spenser's Faerie Queene, William Shakespeare's Twelfth Night , and the sonnets, sermons, speeches, and lyric poems of the medieval and early modern periods.

Classroom Policies

In the Zoom Classroom

One of the ways we can foster proximity -- like we have in the physical classroom -- is to all be engaged in Zoom. So I'm making your participation in our Tuesday/Thursday Zoom meetings worth 40% of your overall grade.

For every class day:

25 points: camera on entire class (one 5 minute break allowed)

50 points: each point or question you make, 25 points each (up to two)

25 points: interacting with another person, by building on or pushing back against their earlier point. You must name them, i.e. "I want to push back against Catherine's suggestion that King Lear is helpless against his daughters." or "I agree with what Shreya said about the humor in Henry V, and want to add that..."

Important Note on Academic Integrity:

Plagiarism, from the Latin word for "kidnapping," is presenting another person's work as your own.

Keep track of your comments and submit them within each class day's Participation/quiz assignment. I 'll keep track of your camera.

So the quiz submission will look like this:

I asked why the history plays were so popular

I read out loud from Much Ado About Nothing

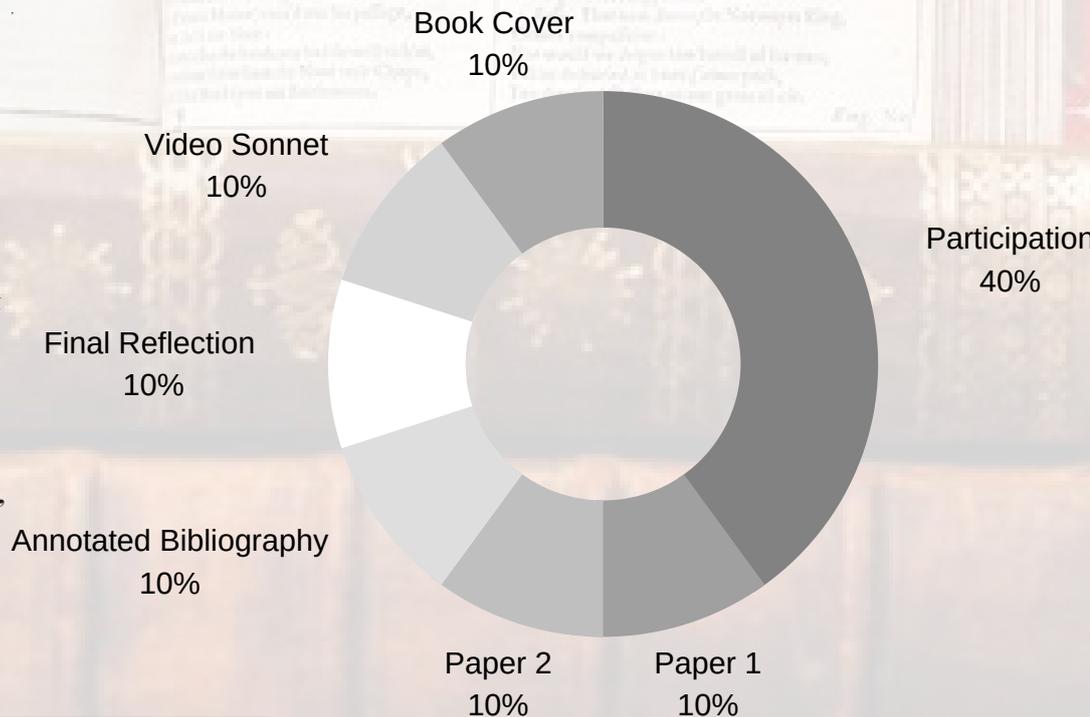

I pushed back on Jack's claim that Shakespeare is too existential

If you are sick and cannot attend class, you may 1) watch the recorded Zoom video, 2) write a 500-word reflection on the day's reading and discussion, quoting the day's text at least twice and citing it in ML format.

See Zoom Engagement Policies Here

When you use someone else's language, ideas, images, or other original material without fully acknowledging its source, you will be in violation of Emory Oxford's Honor Code.

Every assignment will have specific, clear guidelines. While the work itself will be challenging, you should never be confused about what is expected or how it will be evaluated. If you do, please ask questions in class, email, or come see me.

We Should Disagree

I think most of what I have learned that is of any consequence has come through disagreement and further exploration. I welcome your respectful disagreements with me. If we all interpret the articles we are reading in the same way, we have a problem, because no true thinking will be occurring.

Learn to relish when someone disagrees with you! Disagreements make the classroom environment more interesting, productive, generative, and challenging.

Our classroom is not Plato's Cave.

Please note, though, that the college classroom is a place where ideas are exchanged respectfully. I look forward to an environment where this will occur, but I don't have much tolerance for distracting behavior, such as rudeness, texting, sleeping, or side communications during class. If your participation is disruptive to the classroom discussion, if it creates a hostile, intimidating, or offensive environment, you are subject to removal from the classroom at my discretion.

See Emory Oxford's Code of Conduct

You may revise any of your projects in this Discovery Seminar.

The ability to accept and act on criticism is one of the most valuable abilities you can develop. Can you hear constructive criticism with an open mind, build on lessons learned, and make revisions in response to suggestions?

Then I will assess your revised project a second time.

A revision isn't just a quick fix of the obvious errors, but a "re-vision," or another look at your project, in which you address feedback. If you choose to revise, it can only help, not hurt your grade. The revision must be emailed to me within one week and include a cover letter, in which you explain to me what and why you revised what you did.
