Accessing Spelling and Grammar Feedback

Step 1: Students should select the draft they want to revise. They do this from their “Home” tab by clicking on the date of the essay they want to revise. This will bring up their score report for that essay. Note – it must be a completed essay in order to revise it. Then, students should click on the “Revise” button (see below).
Step 2: The spelling and grammar feedback will display above the Text box where students can revise. This feedback will only display after the number of times you specified in the Advanced Options for that prompt. Students may need to scroll their browser up to view the marked text of their previous draft.
Step 3: To see the specific suggestions that PEG offers, students need to scroll their cursor over to the letter “S” (for spelling) or “G” for grammar. Then, they need to click on the letter “S” or “G” to display the feedback from PEG. Students can then edit their prompt in the text box below. They can move back and forth between looking at the spelling and grammar feedback, and fixing their errors.
