

Jack Kramer
Global Technology Leader
W. L. Gore & Associates

Jack Kramer has been Gore's Global Technology Leader and a member of Gore's three-person senior corporate leadership team since 2005. He is responsible for helping develop and drive Gore's business and technology strategy and for assuring Gore's overall success.

Jack joined Gore in 1982. Prior to his current corporate roles, Jack was involved in the product and process development for Gore's Fabric's division. There he held numerous leadership positions, including technology leader for the division. He was also a member of Gore's People and Intellectual Property Committee that set and oversaw Gore's HR and IP philosophy and practices.

Jack received a BS in Chemical Engineering from the University of Delaware.
