An all-encompassing approach

Welcome to ILW 2020

The American Branch of the International Law Association (ABILA) welcomes you to its annual International Law Weekend (ILW) conference. The theme of ILW 2020 is International Law in Challenging Times.

From shifting political alliances to changing trade and economic relations, the world around us is undergoing profound transformations. The backlash against globalization has resulted in increased suspicion of multilateralism – and escalating populism. Yet, the world is more interconnected than ever. Our economic system relies on interconnectivity. To stop the spread of the coronavirus and address climate change, international coordination is paramount. What is the role of international law in this changing and often contradictory world? What could and should international lawyers do? How can international institutions become more successful both at addressing the challenges facing them and in winning state and popular support? ILW 2020 will explore these issues through a diverse collection of engaging and provocative panels. The audience will include practitioners, academics, U.N. diplomats, business leaders, federal and state government officials, NGO leaders, journalists, students, and interested citizens. There is a broad array of both public international law and private international law topics in each program time slot.

ILW 2020 begins Thursday, October 22, 2020 with a President's Opening Plenary Panel. Moderated by ABILA President Leila Sadat, speakers include Professor Gian Luca Burci (Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies of Geneva); H.E. Judge Silvia Fernández de Gurmendi (International Criminal Court); and Professor David Scheffer (Northwestern Pritzker School of Law).

The conference continues Friday and Saturday, October 23-24, 2020, and features 27 panels on a range of topics. Keynote speakers include Catherine Amirfar (Partner & Co-Chair of the Public International Law Group, Debevoise and Plimpton, LLP; President, American Society of International Law) and H.E. Judge Julia Sebutinde (International Court of Justice). These events are open to all conference attendees.

The Saturday program includes a special United Nations 75th Anniversary Plenary Panel. It will continue with the ABILA Annual Member's Meeting and Plenary. The Annual Meeting is open to members and non-members alike, however only members can vote.

Multiple panels are designated for continuing legal education (CLE) credit. CLE credit is offered to all ILW attendees at no additional cost through the sponsorship and assistance of White & Case LLP, which is an accredited provider of New York and California CLE credit. Attorneys licensed in other states can apply for CLE credit in their own jurisdiction using the New York CLE certificate provided by White & Case LLP.

2020 Vision: Trends and Challenges in the Enforcement of International Arbitral Awards

Approved for
CLE

*This panel is sponsored by
the ABILA
Committee on International Arbitration*

This panel will assess the major trends and challenges facing the enforcement regime for international arbitration awards as we look ahead to a new decade. It will explore perennial issues such as sovereign immunity and the impact of insolvency on enforcement, as well as newer challenges such as the disruptive effects of COVID-19 and the impact of current reform proposals for investor-state dispute settlement on enforcement. Our panelists will conclude by assessing prospects for changes to the enforcement regime in the near future.

Moderator:

- Julianne Marley, Senior Associate, Debevoise & Plimpton LLP

Panelists:

- Andrea Bjorklund, Professor, McGill University Faculty of Law
- Lee M. Caplan, Partner, Arent Fox LLP, Washington D.C.

- Alyssa King, Assistant Professor, Queen's University Faculty of Law

3:30-4:30 pm

Climate Change and the Law of the Sea

*This panel is sponsored by
Debevoise &
Plimpton LLP*

The law of the sea framework was established prior to the more recent awareness of climate change and its impacts. This panel will explore how international law, especially the law of the sea, should account for sea-level rise, including regarding issues such as baselines and maritime entitlements, status of features, protection of the marine environment, and statehood of low-lying States and the rights of their nationals.

Moderator:

- Aimee-Jane Lee, International Counsel, Debevoise & Plimpton LLP

Panelists:

- David Freestone, Professorial Lecturer in Law, George Washington University; Rapporteur, International Law Association Committee on International Law and Sea Level Rise
- Dr. Nilufer Oral, Director, Centre for International Law, National University of Singapore; Co-Chair, International Law Commission Study Group on Sea Level Rise in International Law
- Nicola Swan, Senior Associate, Chapman Tripp (New Zealand); Member, IBA Environmental, Social and Governance Arbitration Committee; former Secretary, IBA Presidential Task Force on Climate Change Justice and Human Rights

COVID-19 and Climate Change: A Setback or Strengthening the Resolve to Move Forward?

This panel is sponsored by the ABILA Committee on International Environmental and Energy Law

This panel will focus on the current challenges of climate change policies. Specifically, it will assess the consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic for treaties on climate change, international refugees, and climate litigation. Ultimately, the panel will determine if the pandemic is a setback to climate change policies or an unprecedented opportunity to strengthening the resolve to move forward.

Moderator:

- Myanna F. Dellinger, Professor of Law, University of South Dakota

Panelists:

- Carolina Arlota, Visiting Assistant Professor of Law, The University of Oklahoma College of Law
- Michael Gerrard, Professor of Law and Director, Sabin Center for Climate Change Law, Columbia Law School
- Jolene Lin, Associate Professor of Law and Director, Asia-Pacific Centre for Environmental Law, National University of Singapore

9:00-10:00 am

Business Engagement in Global Governance: Boon or Peril?

Approved for CLE

Many international organizations are now partnering with business groups, seeking expertise, corporate engagement with important issues, and funds. While public-private partnerships can seem indispensable, the danger of undue influence is real. This roundtable will discuss cutting-edge efforts by international organizations to capture benefits of business participation while restraining harms, and how past experience may offer lessons for future challenges.

Moderator:

- Ayelet Berman, Senior Fellow, National University of Singapore Faculty of Law, Centre for International Law

Panelists:

- Igor da Silva Barbosa, First-Secretary, Permanent Mission of Brazil to the United Nations Office in Geneva
- Kristina Daugirdas, Professor of Law, University of Michigan
- Melissa J. ("MJ") Durkee, Allen Post Professor, University of Georgia School of Law
- Nancy Thevenin, General Counsel, United States Council for International Business (USCIB)

Schedule

9:00-10:00 am Submarine Cables and Pipelines under International Law: The Ongoing Work of the ABILA Committee on Law of the Sea

*Approved for
CLE*

*This panel is sponsored by
the ABILA
Committee on
Law of the Sea*

Submarine cables are the foundation of the world's communication infrastructure. Submarine power cables and pipelines also play vital roles in our interconnected world. The panelists will preview the interim report of the ILA Committee on Submarine Cables and Pipelines, discuss the international legal regime governing submarine cables and pipelines, and address some of the challenges faced in the 21st century.

Moderator:

- Coalter G. Lathrop, President, Sovereign Geographic; Chair, ABILA Committee on Law of the Sea

Panelists:

- Danae Azaria, Associate Professor in Law, University College London; Co-rapporteur, ILA Study Committee on Submarine Cables and Pipelines

9:00-10:00 am Strengthening the International Criminal Court: A Path Forward?

*This panel is co-
sponsored by
the ABILA
Committee on International Humanitarian
Law and Debevoise &
Plimpton LLP*

Despite some recent successes, the International Criminal Court (ICC) faces serious internal and external challenges, including the recent U.S. sanctions. To address these issues, the Assembly of States Parties established an Independent Expert Review, which released its report in September 2020. In December, the Assembly will elect six judges and a prosecutor—a near-complete turnover of leadership. This panel will consider these changes, as well as the prospects for strengthening the Court.

Moderator:

- Elizabeth Nielsen, Counsel, Debevoise & Plimpton LLP

Panelists:

- Kevin Jon Heller, Professor of International Law and Security, Centre for Military Studies, University of Copenhagen; Professor of Law, Australian National University; Academic Member, Doughty Street Chambers
- Fiona McKay, Senior Managing Legal Officer on International Justice, Open Society Justice Initiative; Former Head of the ICC Victims Participation and Reparations Section
- Alex Whiting, Deputy Prosecutor, Kosovo Specialist Prosecutor's Office, The Hague; Former Investigations Coordinator and Prosecutions Coordinator, Office of the Prosecutor, International Criminal Court

Schedule

Friday, October 23

10:30-11:30 am The Challenge of Globalizing Private International Law

*Approved for
CLE*

This panel will focus on the institutions and issues that have been important in the global development of rules of private international law. Panelists will discuss several questions, including (1) What is the most important development at your institution in the past year?; (2) What issues resulting from existing legal instruments covered by your institution have seen the most interesting developments the past year?; (3) What are the most interesting projects on the horizon at your institution?; and (4) How has COVID-19 affected the agenda of your institution in the past year and on the horizon?

Moderator:

- Ronald A. Brand, Professor of Law, University of Pittsburgh School of Law
- Louise Ellen Teitz, Professor of Law, Roger Williams Law School

Panelists:

- Christophe Bernasconi, Secretary General, Hague Conference on Private International Law
- José Angelo Estrella Faria, Principal Legal Officer and Head, Legislative Branch, International Trade Law Division, Office of Legal Affairs, United Nations
- Shubha Sastry, Assistant Legal Advisor, U.S. Department of State
- Jeannette Tramhel, Senior Legal Officer, Organization of American States
- Anna Veneziano, Deputy Secretary-General, UNIDROIT

10:30-11:30 am Asylum in Crisis: Upholding Human Rights During a Pandemic

*This panel is sponsored by
Debevoise &
Plimpton LLP*

In a matter of months, the COVID-19 pandemic has led to seismic changes worldwide, with numerous States closing their borders and imposing strict restrictions on movement in an effort to contain the spread of the virus. Efforts to tackle the worldwide crisis have led to major disruptions, including for some of the most vulnerable groups of people who, even in the best of circumstances, already faced challenges: asylum-seekers and internally displaced people.

International human rights law provides that all individuals have the right to life and security, to receive the highest attainable standard of health, and to seek asylum. Governments may derogate from some (but not all) of their international obligations, and only if certain narrow and exceptional circumstances and conditions are met. In times of a pandemic, how can the international system respond to the dual challenge of ensuring that asylum seekers and internally displaced peoples have access to their rights as enshrined under international law, while allowing countries to manage a health crisis? What will be the “new normal” for the international system? Can international human rights law provide a framework for States to ensure that their responses to a pandemic account for everyone?

Moderator:

- Sunil Varghese, Policy Director, International Refugee Assistance Project

Panelists:

- Cecilia Jimenez-Damary, UN Special Rapporteur on the human rights of internally displaced persons (IDPs), UN OHCHR
- Afshan Khan, Regional Director for Europe and Central Asia (ECA) & Special Coordinator for the Refugee and Migrant Response in Europe, UNICEF
- Jaya Ramji-Nogales, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and I. Herman Stern Research Professor, Temple University Beasley School of Law

Standard Setting for Outer Space Activities: Choice of Forums and Methods

Approved for
CLE

This panel is sponsored by
the ABILA
Committee on
Space Law

New commercial activities and public-private partnerships in outer space demand further flesh be put on the bones of existing international space norms for safety, sustainability, capabilities for long-term presence and protection of heritage sites. Nations and private actors are cooperatively engaging in new standard setting forums, including through the Artemis Accords, Committee on Space Research (COSPAR), Consortium for Execution and Rendezvous of Servicing Operations (CONFERS), and via national regulatory reforms. This roundtable will explore and evaluate the choice of options on the outer space standard-setting menu.

Moderator:

- Matthew Schaefer, Haggart & Work Professor of International Trade Law & Founding Co-Director, Space, Cyber, and Telecom Law Program, University of Nebraska College of Law

Panelists:

- Mike Gold, Acting Associate Administrator, Office of International and Interagency Affairs, NASA
- Henry Hertzfeld, Research Professor of Space Policy and International Affairs; Director, Space Policy Institute, The Elliot School of International Affairs, George Washington University
- Caryn Schenewerk, Vice President of Regulatory and Government Affairs, Relativity Space
- Audrey Powers, Deputy General Counsel & Vice President of Legal & Compliance, Blue Origin

10:30-11:30 am

Gun Violence as a Human Rights Issue & the U.S. Government's Failure to Fulfill its International Obligations

Nearly 40,000 people are killed by guns in the United States every year; another 110,000 are non-fatally shot. Children, communities of color, and women are disproportionately harmed. The U.S. is also the world's largest exporter of firearms and its lax regulations enable human rights abusers and other dangerous persons aboard to easily acquire U.S. guns. The U.S. government has failed to pass legislation to halt this crisis and has actively loosened regulations and industry oversight. This has created a culture of fear that interferes with the enjoyment of fundamental human rights, including the rights to life, security, health, assembly, and expression, and to be free from discrimination and ill-treatment. International human rights law obligates the U.S. government to act with due diligence to prevent human rights violations and, thus, its failure to adopt practices that are proven to reduce these harms is a violation of its legal obligations. Panelists will explore this argument, debate the role of international organizations in gun violence prevention and arms control, and discuss possible remedies for this crisis.

Moderator:

- Madaline George, Senior Fellow, Whitney R. Harris World Law Institute at Washington University School of Law; Lead Researcher, Gun Violence and Human Rights Initiative

Panelists:

- Barbara Frey, Director, Human Rights Program, University of Minnesota; former Special Rapporteur to the U.N. Sub-Commission on the issue of preventing human rights abuses committed with small arms and light weapons.
- Leila Nadya Sadat, President, International Law Association (American Branch); Director, Whitney R. Harris World Law Institute; James Carr Professor of International Criminal Law, Washington University School of Law
- Eugenio Weigend, Associate Director for Gun Violence Prevention, Center for American Progress

On Being a Lawyer-Diplomat

Approved for
CLE

The contemporary “practice” of international law takes place in diverse circumstances, including government offices, multilateral conferences, and before supranational courts and committees. This roundtable discussion will address several questions: What is (or should be) the role of lawyers who participate in the conduct of diplomatic relations? How do law and diplomacy interact? What makes a “good” international lawyer?

Moderator:

- David P. Stewart, Professor from Practice; Co-Director, Global Law Scholars Program; Director, Center on Transnational Business and the Law, Georgetown University Law Center

Panelists:

- Ambassador Katrina Cooper, Deputy Chief of Mission, Embassy of Australia in Washington, D.C.

Obligations Erga Omnes before the International Court of Justice

This panel is sponsored by Debevoise & Plimpton LLP

In Gambia v. Myanmar, the International Court of Justice (ICJ) provisionally held for the first time that all States Parties to the Genocide Convention, not only “specially affected” States, have standing to enforce the Convention’s obligations erga omnes partes. This roundtable panel will consider the practical and diplomatic implications of the decision and discuss the difference between obligations erga omnes and erga omnes partes.

Moderator:

- Nawi Ukabiala, Associate, Debevoise & Plimpton LLP

Panelists:

- Ambassador Marja Lehto, Ambassador and Senior Expert at the Legal Service of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs of Finland; Member, UN International Law Commission

Arbitration of Human Rights at Sea: Giving International Law Teeth by Empowering Victims to Enforce It

This panel is sponsored by the ABILA Committee on International Arbitration

Despite a well-established body of international human rights law, human rights abuses occur at sea with disquieting regularity. The problem seems not to lie in the content of the law, but rather in the way it is enforced. This panel will explore whether giving victims the ability to enforce rights directly through arbitration can improve human rights protection at sea.

Moderator:

- Anna Petrig, Professor and Chair of International Law and Public Law, University of Basel (Switzerland)

Panelists:

- Emmanuel Gaillard, Global Head of Disputes and Global Head of the International Arbitration Practice Group, Shearman & Sterling LLP
- Ursula Kriebaum, Professor of Public International Law, University of Vienna
- Elisabeth Mavropoulou, Lecturer in Law, University of Westminster; Trustee, Human Rights at Sea
- Irini Papanicopolulu, Associate Professor of International Law, Università degli Studi di Milano Bicocca

2:00-3:00 pm

Race, Culture, and Law in Muslim-Majority Countries

This panel is sponsored by the ABILA Committee on Islamic Law and Society

The recent murder of George Floyd, followed by massive protests and a tremendous outpouring of sympathy and support for the African American minority in the United States, has galvanized the world. Right-thinking Muslims and members of minority communities turned out for protest marches and organized minority-rights activism in Muslim-majority countries as well. These actions continue. This panel will consider the relevance of international law and Islamic law on the rights of minorities in Muslim communities and the current state of legal, cultural, and juridical affairs in Muslim-majority countries on this issue. Racial, ethnic, and religious minorities have suffered greatly in a number of Muslim-majority countries in recent times. The panel will focus discussion on the plight of a number of these communities and consider whether the recent renewed attention to the minority-rights issue in the United States will have any impact on the law and culture of minority-rights in Muslim-majority countries.

Moderator:

- Sahar Aziz, Professor of Law and Chancellor's Social Justice Scholar, Rutgers University Law School

Panelists:

- Mohamed Azmy, President, General Nubian Union; Egyptian Human Rights Lawyer
- Bernard Freamon, Professor of Law Emeritus, Seton Hall Law School
- Saad Salloum, Executive Director, Masarat

Novel Human Rights Crises During a Global Pandemic

This panel is sponsored by the ABILA Committee on International Human Rights

How does a global pandemic like COVID-19 affect the operation of international human rights law? The answer is complex, not only because of the wide range of human rights affected, but also because of the wide range of responses by governments, international organizations, and private actors. The most obvious human rights consequence of a pandemic is to highlight existing weaknesses in the human rights infrastructure, such as health care systems and prison systems. But pandemics also create relatively novel human rights challenges. This panel will explore unique human rights issues caused by pandemics, specifically: widespread declarations of national emergency authorizing derogations from human rights, exceptional limitations on the freedom of movement, and obstacles to the human right to education.

Moderator:

- Aaron Fellmeth, Dennis S. Karjala Professor of Law, Science, and Technology, Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law; Chair, ABILA Committee on International Human Rights

Panelists:

- Christina M. Cerna, Adjunct Professor of Law, Georgetown Law Center
- Paul Dubinsky, Professor of Law, Wayne State University School of Law
- Barbara Stark, Professor of Law and Hofstra Research Fellow, Maurice A. Deane School of Law, Hofstra University

3:30-4:30 pm

The U.S. and the International Criminal Court – Can a Court in the Netherlands be a U.S. National Security Threat?

Approved for CLE

This panel is sponsored by the ABILA Committee on the International Criminal Court

This panel will explore the U.S. relationship to the International Criminal Court (ICC), which has currently reached a nadir with an Executive Order designating the Court to be a "threat to national security." Panelists will be asked to opine on this Executive Order, including its provision creating, inter alia, sanctions against Court staff and/or their families—property freezes and travel bans. Panelists will also be asked to look ahead to what the U.S. relationship towards the ICC should be, exploring issues related to jurisdiction as well as complementarity related to the ICC's Afghanistan investigation and potential charges against U.S. nationals for "enhanced interrogation."

Moderator:

- Jennifer Trahan, Clinical Professor; Director, Concentration in International Law & Human Rights, NYU Center for Global Affairs; Co-chair, ABILA Committee on the International Criminal Court

Panelists:

- Harold H. Koh, former Legal Adviser, U.S. Department of State; Sterling Professor of International Law, Yale Law School
- Ambassador Stephen J. Rapp, former U.S. Ambassador, State Department, Office of Global Criminal Justice; Visiting Fellow of Practice, Blavatnik School of Government, Oxford University
- Beth Van Schaack, former Deputy to the Ambassador, State Department, Office of Global Criminal Justice; Leah Kaplan Visiting Professor of Human Rights, Stanford Law School
- Ambassador Clint Williamson, former U.S. Ambassador-at-Large for War Crimes Issues; Senior Director for International Rule of Law, Governance and Security, The McCain Institute

From Accord Back to Confrontation: The Return of the Iran Nuclear Crisis

This panel is sponsored by the ABILA Committee on Use of Force

This panel will consider the return of the international crisis concerning Iran's nuclear program following the Trump administration's decision in 2018 to withdraw from the 2015 Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA). The increase in tension between Iran and the United States since the U.S withdrawal from the JCPOA has created a dangerous standoff that has already produced military action on both sides. The panel will discuss international legal questions present in this crisis and the future of Iran's nuclear program.

The End of American Human Rights Exceptionalism

U.S. claims of “good” human rights exceptionalism argue that the U.S. should be exempted from international human rights law because it has a robust and enduring system of justice under law. An uglier version explicitly rejects international law and the universality of human rights at home. Recent global demonstrations against domestic human rights problems in the U.S. represents a significant change. Domestic movements – Black Lives Matter and others – have turned to the United Nations Human Rights Council and other bodies to seek redress and justice. UN member States and senior officials – including the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights and several Special Rapporteurs – have explicitly supported UN attention to human rights abuses in the United States.

This panel will examine the current shift in the domestic and international movements for human rights, exploring the historic origins of assertions of human rights exceptionalism, and discuss the possibility of rejoining the domestic and the international into a truly global project of human rights.

Investor-State Disputes, International Finance, and the Economic Crisis

Approved for
CLE

*This panel is sponsored by
the ABILA
Committee on International
Investment Law*

Economic crises are a leading cause of investment disputes in the international finance sector—including disputes over sovereign defaults, banking sector interventions, and currency measures. This panel will consider whether, and to what degree, investment-state arbitration has a useful role to play in resolving the controversies that inevitably follow high stakes regulatory actions in the midst of economic crisis.

Weaponry, Technology, Uncertainty, and Regulation

This panel is sponsored by the ABILA Committee on Arms Control

How do we know what we know about weapons programs around the world? How can we assess the risks of further research, development, and possible deployment of new weapons technologies? Artificial intelligence, cyberweaponry, autonomous weapons, hypersonic missiles, and space systems are all cutting-edge areas of military research. However, in each of these and in other cases, it can be difficult to know just where the cutting edge is. Moreover, there is often disagreement concerning the relative promise and peril of the development, let alone the weaponization, of various new technologies. This panel will explore such knowledge gaps and risk assessments and their effects on the international regulation of weapons technologies.

Moderator:

- Christopher Borgen, Professor of Law and Co-Director, Center for International and Comparative Law, St. John's University School of Law

Panelists:

- William Boothby, Honorary Professor, Australian National University; Air Commodore (retired), Royal Air Force
