Dr. Parag Chitnis, Associate Director at the National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) of USDA, leads the implementation of NIFA’s programs, which invest $1.75 billion for research and extension activities in food and agricultural sciences. Join Dr. Chitnis for a discussion about the changing face of American agriculture and food systems. This event is brought to you by the International Center for Energy, Environment and Sustainability (InCEES).