

CRE² Undergraduate Research Award for the Study of Race, Ethnicity & Equity Letter of Nomination Instructions

Thank you for agreeing to oversee the research project of a Washington University undergraduate student. Faculty provide supervision, advice, and direction that is crucial to the success of the student's work. As such, the comments you provide in your nomination letter will be critical to the funding decision. In your letter, please discuss the following:

- The importance of the research experience to the student's academic progression
- The feasibility of the proposed project (including how the research plan will accommodate the student's academic year studies)
- The proposed study's contribution to the discipline and the study of race/ethnicity
- The student's ability to complete the research
- Any issues related to intellectual property rights and publication you foresee (if applicable)

We hope that you have a positive experience working with your student nominee, and we look forward to working with you. Please contact CRE² at cre2@wustl.edu if you have any questions or concerns. Thank you again for your commitment to undergraduate research.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Hedwig Lee".

Hedwig Lee
Professor of Sociology, Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies (Affiliate), and the Brown School
(Courtesy)
Co-Director, Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity & Equity

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "William Acree".

William Acree
Professor of Spanish, American Culture Studies (Affiliate), and Performing Arts (Affiliate)
Interim Co-Director, Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity & Equity