November’s Topic:

NATIVE AMERICANS & NATURAL RESOURCES

- Native Americans were the very first people to live in Missouri. Tribes such as the Missouri, Osage, Fox and the Sauk lived in Missouri.

- Native Americans were careful not to waste any part of an animal that they killed. For instance, after eating the meat of a deer they used the deer hide for clothing, bones for utensil handles and needles, and antlers for knife handles and tools.

- They used feathers for head dresses and other decorations.

- Rocks were made into arrowheads and tools.

- Wild plants were used for food, dyes and medicines.

- Gourds were grown for food and to house purple martin birds, which controlled mosquito populations in the villages.

- We can learn much about conservation by studying the ways of Native Americans.

Book Suggestions by Native Authors: Jingle Dancer, by Cynthia Leitich Smith, Fry Bread, by Kevin Noble Maillard, and We Are Grateful, by Traci Sorell