

DEPARTMENT OF
FOOD SCIENCE
AND TECHNOLOGY

2010 Autumn Term Seminar Series

Friday, October 8th

Thickened Fluids for Treatment of Dysphagia

Rich Hartel, Food Engineering Professor, The University of Wisconsin-Madison

Thursday, October 21st High Pressure Processing—Basics and Potential Application in Seed Decontamination

Dr. Haiqiang Chen, Associate Professor, Food Science, The University of Delaware

Thursday, November 4th

Product Development: The Journey from Idea to the Shelf

Monica Valdez, Product Development Specialist, Nestle USA

Friday, November 12th

Economic Costs of Foodborne Illnesses

Robert Scharff, Assistant Professor, Department of Consumer Sciences,
College of Education and Human Ecology, The Ohio State University

Thursday, November 18th

Crops to the Clinic Cancer Research at OSU: Food Science as the Focal Point

Steve K. Clinton, MD, PhD

Professor, Division of Medical Oncology, OSU Department of Internal Medicine
Program Leader, Molecular Carcinogenesis and Chemoprevention, OSU Comprehensive Cancer Center
Director, Prostate and Genitourinary Oncology, The James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute

All seminars take place from Noon—1 p.m.

Room 118 Parker Food Science Building

No Registration Required and Everyone is Invited to Attend