

Making Your Woods Work for You

A Day in the Field

Field day for forest landowners describing:

- ✓ A variety of techniques to create healthy forests and help wildlife
- ✓ Financial incentives and programs available to landowners
- ✓ Opportunities to benefit a variety of bird species, including:

Ruffed
Grouse

Scarlet
Tanager

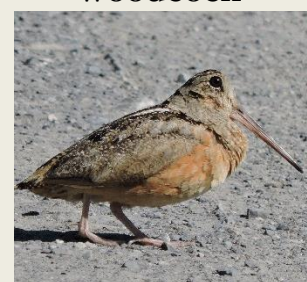

Wild
Turkey

Cerulean
Warbler

American
Woodcock

Full Day in the Field to Learn from the Experts about Managing Your Woodlands for Birds and other Wildlife

Workshop participants will visit a variety of sites to see examples of how to manage their woodlands for birds and other wildlife. Presentations in the field by experts from U.S. Forest Service, Natural Resources Conservation Service, ODNR Division of Wildlife, National Wild Turkey Federation, and Ohio State University Extension and ODNR Division of Forestry about:

- Long-term management for your woods
- Landowner assistance programs
- Prescribed fire
- Invasive species control
- What woodland habitat birds need and how to make sure your woods have it

Workshop is free: no registration fee. Transportation and lunch provided for the day.

Workshop Date: June 24, 2017; 9:30am-4:00pm

Workshop Location: Wayne National Forest, 13700 US Highway 33, Nelsonville, OH

- Be prepared for light rain – bring appropriate clothes and shoes
- If thunder, heavy rain, the workshop will be held indoors at Wayne National Forest office

REGISTRATION DEADLINE: June 20th

For More Information or to Register

Online registration:

<https://makingwoodsworkforyoufieldday.eventbrite.com>

Register by phone or email:

Todd Fearer

Coordinator, Appalachian Mountains Joint Venture

540-231-9519

tfearer@abcbirds.org

Workshop
Organizers

