OSU/USDA/FSIS Federal and State – Meat Inspection Training Classes at OSU.
Each class was 5 week/8 hours/day and night and weekend review sessions when requested. There were 50 students per class, and each class (8 per year for 4 years) was composed of veterinarian inspectors and lay inspectors. For instruction, OSU furnished professors and books were written for each subject matter area and furnished to these students. Housing and meals was also provided, along with buses to class and to the airport. I taught Biochemistry of Postmortem Tissue, Laboratory Analysis and Statistical Evaluation. These books can be found on the OSU Knowledge Bank. Other classes were taught by professors from Animal Science and the Veterinary School. FSIS also furnished a supervisor (Bill Dennis).

Typical Inspectors' Model Cars

As a learner in Ohio State University, one learns the young man is due to graduation of figures and dollars from tailpipes are due to incomplete cars. He learns polluting the atmosphere with CO, his damper, which also keeps hunters cooled out, low enough so he can't afford to travel.

Typical College Professor's New German Corvette

The unsuspicious meat inspector soon learns that the above is not a completely accurate picture of the college professor's life. As he is usually proclaiming that Heisenberg cars also the back seat is usually filled with cold dust but after the last load, the professor下手 an inspection sideline to make ends meet. To drive his new Volkswagen.
NOW THAT WE HAVE GOT THIS ALL DOWN "PAY" IS THERE ANY QUESTIONS?
