Andrea Dumolt East Asian Studies 3-9-04

Purpose: This lesson will provide the students with an opportunity to apply their knowledge of the 5 themes of geography and relate the 5 themes to China and the Silk Road.

1. How did the Silk Road end China’s isolation from the West?
2. Why was the Silk Road important to China?
3. What affect did the 5 Themes of Geography have on the Silk Road?
4.

Target Grade Level:
Students with Special Needs grades 9-10

Topic:
How the 5 Themes of Geography in China had an impact on the Silk Road.

* Handout 1

- Map of Silk Road one for each student and an overhead taken from:
- Yarn (red green, and blue)
- Empty pizza boxes
- Flour/salt/water for physical map
- * Large physical map of China

Key Idea:
Geographic features (Mts. and deserts) have kept Asian countries in isolation for centuries. The Silk Road connected China to other nations.
Procedures:

Activity One-
1. Review 5 Themes of Geography. Students write definitions to each theme on Handout 1.
2. Have students complete Handout 1 either in groups or individually depending on class size and computer availability.
3. Discuss results.

Activity Two-
1. After reviewing the 5 themes and completing Handout 1 look at large physical map of China and surrounding countries (of the silk road) ask students to locate the following geographic features: Gobi Desert, Taklimakan Desert (the Land of the Dead), Lopnor Desert, and the Himalayas, Korakourm, Kunkun, Tianshan, and Pamir mountain ranges.
2. Discuss how these features kept China and other countries isolated. Discuss climate and terrain of both deserts and mountains. Why was Taklimakan called “the Land of the Dead?” Ask students how did China over come these obstacles- refer to Handout 1 Movement question 5. How is it that they broke this isolationism? How come we have Chinese food, Americans practicing Buddhism, silk, gun powder etc…?
3. Refer to http://www.central.k12.ca.us/akers/silk_road.html Read through the information together. Point out that the Silk Road was navigated around these geographic features.
4. Using the overhead map of the silk road discuss present day countries along the road and where the mountains and deserts are located that were discussed earlier.

Activity Three-
1. Students will create a 3-D model of the silk road.
2. Draw outline of Silk Road map on the bottom of a clean pizza box.
3. Students will build mountains with the flour/salt/water mixture.
4. Students will outline the Silk Road with red yarn and the Great Wall of China in green and rivers in blue.

Evaluation:
Class discussions, Handout 1 and 3-D model of the Silk Road.

Grade Adaptation: Students at the High School level in regular history class can research the Silk Road to a deeper level and not do the 3-D model.
Relationship to Social Studies Standards:

Students use knowledge of geographic locations, patterns and processes to show the interrelationship between the physical environment and human activity, and to explain the interactions that occur in an increasingly interdependent world.

   Explain how political and economic conditions, resources, geographic locations and cultures have contributed to cooperation and conflict.

   Analyze the social, political, economic and environmental factors that have contributed to human migration now and in the past.
