Education

Ph. D. (1975) in Psychology with specialty areas: developmental psychology and health psychology (psychophysiology); BA summa cum laude in Psychology (1971), Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

Statement of Professional Interests

My work is on the contributions of psychology to peace and social justice (peace psychology) focusing on psychological factors that promote harmony and equity in human relationships and systems. I am committed to growing the field of peace psychology through research, writing, teaching and training. To this end, I am the founder and Series Editor of the Peace Psychology Book Series (Springer – SBM) which has 36 books and The Encyclopedia of Peace Psychology, a three-volume set (Wiley-Blackwell). As a Fulbright Specialist, I carried out research on peace-related topics and developed Peace and Conflict Studies courses and programs. Recent sponsored research was on the nature and development of trust and humanizing processes especially in intergroup relations.
