Mediating Religious Studies and Oaxacanist Studies xxv

I. An Alternate Starting Point: Reconceptualizing Monte Albán as an Enduring Work of Sacred Architecture.....	xxvi
II. A Three-Book Plan: Aspects of an Ongoing Ritual-Architectural Reception History of Monte Albán.....	xxxiii
III. A Disciplinary Divide: The Distressing Disconnect between Religious Studies and Oaxacanist Studies.....	xxxvii
IV. A Felicitous Combination: The Hopeful Promise of Bridging Religious Studies and Oaxacanist Studies.....	xlvii

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

Reconceptualizing Religion: Orientation and/or Cosmivision as That Which Matters Most..... 1

I. Dilemmas in Defining Religion: The Non-Option of Neutrality and the Selection of a Heuristic Stipulation Suitable to Our Present Purposes.....	3
A. The Extreme Imbalance of Oaxacanist Studies: A Wealth of Religion- Related Data but a Paucity of Theorizing about Religion.....	7
B. The Contingency of Every Definition of Religion: Methodological Clarity and Self-Consciousness about what Qualifies as “Religious”	11
C. Embracing One Working Stipulation of Religion: Thomas Carlyle on “That Which Matters Most” to a Person or People.....	14
D. Avoiding Two Untoward Presuppositions about Religion: Not a Coherent System of Beliefs and Not an Apolitical Sphere of Culture.....	16

1. Problems with Presuming that Zapotec Religion is a Coherent System of Beliefs and Supernaturals: Acknowledging a “Religion without Theology”	18
2. Problems with Presuming that Zapotec Religion is a Domain Distinct from Politics: Reconnecting that which was Never Separate.....	20
E. The Agenda of the Introduction: Paired Appeals to Comparative Religionists on Orientation and Mesoamericanists on Cosmovision.....	24
II. Reconceptualizing Religion: Intersections between the Cross-Culturally Comparative History of Religions and Mesoamerican Studies	26
A. Religionists’ Reconceptualizations: Religion as Orientation and a Study of Religion Based Foremost on Material (Non-Literary) Evidence.....	27
1. Mircea Eliade’s Point of Departure: “Being Religious” and Finding Orientation as Constitutive of the Human Condition.....	28
2. Eliade and Materiality: Anticipating the “Material Turn” and Shifting Attention from “Sacred Texts” to Material Culture.....	34
3. Eliade and Material Manifestations of the Sacred: Religious Experience of Natural and Humanly-Constructed Physical Forms.....	38
4. Eliade and Archaeology: Religious Expression in Material Culture and the Appreciation of “Non-Literary Vehicles of Intelligibility”.....	41
B. Mesoamericanists’ Reconceptualizations: Shifting Attitudes about pre-Columbian “Religion” and the Emergence of the Notion of “Cosmovision”	47
1. Stage One—Vigorous and Vague Affirmations of “Intense Religiosity”: Mexican Nationalist Discourses and Euro-American Imaginings.....	49
2. Stage Two—A Narrowed and Diminished Role for Religion: The Revisionist Priorities of Marxist and Processual Archaeologists.....	53
3. Stage Three—Renewed and Revised Appreciations of Religion: Post-Processualism and the Emergence of “the Cosmovision Approach”.....	57
C. Alfredo López Austin on Cosmovision: Pan-Mesoamerican Unity, Appeals to Ethnography and “the Hard Nucleus”.....	60
1. Mesoamerican Unity and Continuity: Contemporary Indigenous Communities as Prime Resources for the Study of Ancient Mesoamerica.....	63
2. Peripheral Differences and Central Similarities: Ancient and Present-day Participants in “the Hard Nucleus” of Mesoamerican Cosmovision.....	68
D. Cosmovision, Orientation and “That Which Matters Most”: Compatible Reconceptualizations of “Religion” in Three Crucial Respects.....	72
1. Homologized Systems and Cosmic Harmony: Cosmovision and Religious Orientation as Overarching, Unifying Forces.....	75
2. Efficacious Misrecognition: Cosmovision and Religious Orientation as Experiential not Intellectual Responses.....	78

3. The Malleability of the Hard Nucleus: Cosmivision and Religious Orientation as Frameworks for Diversity and Change.....	82
E. Monte Albán’s Religion and/or Religions: A Summary Statement of Three Conceptual Correctives and thus Three Special Interpretive Challenges.....	87
III. The Organization of the Work: Building on the Respective Theoretical and Historical Foundations of Two Previous Books.....	90
A. Narrating Monte Alban : A Warrant for Respecting the History of Ideas and Multiple Versions of the Capital’s Founding, Flourishing and Collapse.....	91
B. The Hermeneutics of Sacred Architecture : A Guide to Exploring the Site-Specific Relevance of Eleven Generalized Ritual-Architectural Priorities.....	94
C. A Reaffirmation of the Hermeneutical, Interpretation-via-Interrogation Method: Alternate Questions Leading to Alternate Conclusions.....	102
INTRODUCTION TO PART I
Orientation and Allurement:
The Instigation of Ritual-Architectural Events at Monte Albán.....	105
I. A Uniquely Unified Architectural Conception: The Materialization of an All-Encompassing Master Plan.....	107
II. Deviations from Perfect Regularity: Unavoidable, Inadvertent and/or Purposeful Asymmetries.....	110
A. Asymmetry as a Consequence of Indifference: Dual Commitments to Axiality and Organic Site Plans.....	114
B. Asymmetry as a Defect to be Masked and Covered Over: Topographic Obstacles and Technical Solutions.....	115
C. Asymmetry as a Deliberate Juxtaposition of Order and Variation: Purposeful Deviations from Perfect Regularity.....	117
III. The Rewards of (Appearances of) Perfect Symmetry: Cosmo-magical and/or Political Incentives for Orientation.....	119
A. Designing for the Gods: Cosmo-Magical Incentives for Monte Albán’s Symmetrical Layout.....	119
B. Designing for Human Audiences: Political Incentives for Monte Albán’s Symmetrical Layout.....	121
IV. Part I Agenda—Complementary Strategies of Allurement: Homology (priority I-A), Convention (priority I-B) and Astronomy (priority I-C).....	123
A. Three Key Propositions: The Priority of Orientation, the Paired Discovery and Enhancement of Place, and the Ritual Activation of Otherwise Static Architecture....	124

B. Two Key Qualifications: Orderly Architecture as (Only) a Point of Departure and Discernments of Three Sorts of Harmonious Architecture.....	126
---	-----

CHAPTER ONE

Allurement via Homologized Architecture: Monte Albán as Cosmic Mountain, Microcosm and Sacred Center (Priority I-A).....	129
---	-----

- The Layout of the Chapter: From Presumptions of “Religiosity” to Thematic Categories, Diachronic Arguments, and Critical Reflections on the “Sacredness” of Monte Albán.....130

I. Monte Albán as “Sacred Space” Par Excellence: Professionalized and Popular Accolades, Affirming Assumptions and Occasional Skepticism.....	132
--	-----

II. Monte Albán as Sacred Space and Cosmic Mountain: A Synchronic View.....	141
---	-----

A. Monte Albán as Heterogeneous Space and Hierophany: Discovered and/or Humanly Constructed Mountains of Sustenance.....	142
---	-----

1. Sacred Mountains as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: The Intrinsic Sacrality of High Places.....	144
--	-----

2. Sacred Mountains in Mesoamerican Cosmivision and Oaxaca: Altepeme as Sources of Abundance and Conceptions of Polity.....	145
---	-----

a. Altépetl as a “Water Mountain” or “Hill of Sustenance”: The Existential Allure of Cosmic Mountains.....	146
--	-----

b. Altépetl as a City-State or Territorial Political Unit: The Hegemonic Utility of Cosmic Mountains.....	153
---	-----

3. Sacred Mountains at Monte Albán: Two Key Points about Hierophanies and Cosmic Mountains at the Zapotec Capital.....	156
---	-----

a. Altepeme as “Religious Symbols”: Presystematic Ontology and the Juxtaposition of Water and Mountains.....	157
--	-----

b. Monte Albán as Discovered and Made Sacred Space: Architectural Enhancements of a Hierophanic Place.....	161
--	-----

B. Monte Albán as Imago Mundi : Macrocosmic Models, Microcosmic Cities and the Unification of Space and Time.....	163
---	-----

1. Imago Mundis as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Microcosmic Replications of the Macrocosm.....	164
--	-----

2. Imago Mundis in Mesoamerican Cosmivision and Oaxaca: The Earthly Replication of Perfect Cosmic Order.....	166
--	-----

3. Imago Mundis at Monte Albán: Respecting and Replicating an All-Encompassing World Order.....	169
---	-----

a. Homologized Building at Monte Albán: The Unification of Architectural Space and Calendrical Time.....	170
b. Monte Albán as Microcosm: Mirroring the Cosmos, the Human Body, the Social Order and the Wider Landscape.....	174
4. Two Key Points about Imago Mundi s and the Architectural Replication of an All-Encompassing World Order.....	177
a. Monte Albán as a “Religiously” Motivated Project: Expressions and Reinforcements of Mesoamerican Cosmovision.....	178
b. Monte Albán as a Ritual Context: Ongoing and Diligent Ritualizing as a Means of Maintaining World Order.....	179
C. Monte Albán as Axis Mundi : The Symbolism of the Center and Earthly Access to Celestial Realms and Beings.....	180
1. The Symbolism of the Center as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: The Multiplicity of World Centers and Points of Ontological Transition.....	180
2. The Symbolism of the Center in Mesoamerican Cosmovision and Oaxaca: Cardinal Directionality and Crosses.....	183
3. The Symbolism of the Center at Monte Albán: Religious Centers, Sacred Axes and Areligious Disembedded Capitals.....	189
4. Two Key (and Cautionary) Points about Axis Mundi s and the Symbolism of the Center at Monte Albán.....	193
a. Ontological and/or Political Motives for Living at the Center: Existential Meaning and/or Hegemonic Control.....	193
b. Restricted Access to the Center: The Rewarding but Arduous Journey to a Sacred Center.....	194
III. Monte Albán as Sacred Space and Cosmic Mountain: A Diachronic View.....	195
A. Competing Conceptions of Religion and Negligible Acknowledgements of the Homology Priority (I-A).....	196
B. Arthur Joyce’s Alternate Starting Point: The Agency of Commoners and the Religiosity of Everyone.....	200
1. Before Monte Albán: Discovered and/or Constructed Sacred Spaces in the Archaic and Formative Eras.....	203
2. The Site-Selection and Founding of Monte Albán: A Cosmic Mountain Discovered and Enhanced.....	207
3. The Ascent and then Demise of Monte Albán: From Inclusive Main Plaza to Exclusive Main Plaza.....	210
IV. Closing Thoughts: “The Twofold Mechanism of Architecture” and Homologized Architecture as “a Strategy of Ritual-Architectural Allurement”.....	214
A. Allurement and “the Front-Half” of the Ritual-Architectural Situation: The Necessity of Familiarity, Legitimacy and thus Authority.....	217

B. Mistaking Strategies of Allurement for Substantive Content: Unprecedented Scales but Fully Familiar Themes.....	219
--	-----

CHAPTER TWO

Allurement via Conventionalized Architecture: Innovation, Imitation and Deliberate Archaisms at Monte Albán (Priority I-B).....	225
--	-----

• The Layout of the Chapter: Reflections on the Innovation and/or Unoriginality of Monte Albán, then Inquiries Concerning Three Variations on the Conventionality Theme.....	229
I. Specters of Familiarity and Legitimacy: Homology (I-A) and Conventionality (I-B) as Complementary but Distinct Strategies of Allurement.....	230
II. Background Observations—Dual Distinctions of Innovation and Imitation: Competing Ideas about Unprecedented Inventions and/or Repurposed Conventions at Monte Albán.....	233
A. Establishing Conventions: Monte Albán as a Site of Innovation, Mesoamerican “Firsts,” Patterns and Prototypes.....	235
1. Purported Originality: First-time Urbanism, Writing, Calendrics, Stone Construction, Tombs, Urns and Deity Depictions.....	236
2. Reaffirming and Extending the Originality of Monte Albán: Posturing and/or Prestige via Claims to Being First.....	239
3. More Architectural Innovations: Plaza Scale, Colonnades, Two-Roomed Temples, Ballcourts, TPA’s and Wide Stairways.....	242
B. Reworking Conventions: Monte Albán as a Place of Crossing, Borrowing, Admixing and Synthesizing.....	247
III. Hermeneutical Interrogations—Three Variations on the Convention Priority (I-B): Universalistic Proportions, Divine Directives and/or Deliberate Archaisms.....	254
A. Universalistic Proportions and Conventionalized Rules: Magic Numbers, Sacred Ratios and Geometric Formulas.....	255
1. Universalistic Proportions as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Italian Rulebooks, Chinese Feng-Shui and Indian Silpa Sastras	255
2. Universalistic Proportions in Ancient Mesoamerica: Promising Reassessments and Mounting Evidence.....	259
3. Universalistic Proportions at Monte Albán: Omnipresent Rhythms Expressed in Calendars and Architecture.....	262
B. Divinely Initiated Directives: Design Stipulations (Ostensibly) Delivered by God(s).....	271

1. Divine Directives as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Design Standards in the Quran, Torah and Bible.....	272
2. Divine Directives in Mesoamerica and Monte Albán: Unexplored Possibilities and Debated Conceptions of Divinity.....	275
C. Architectural Appropriations and Archaisms: The Virtues and Appeal of Unoriginality.....	280
1. Architectural Appropriations and Archaisms as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Legitimacy via Imitation and Standardization.....	281
2. Architectural Appropriations and Archaisms in Mesoamerica: Respect for Predecessors and/or Expedient Strategies of Allurement.....	284
3. Architectural Appropriations and Archaisms at Monte Albán: Doubtful Historical Scenarios but Redoubtable Heuristic Options.....	291
a. Period I Olmec Influences Reassessed: Appropriation and Disjunction, Old Forms Emboldened with New Meanings.....	293
b. Period II Mayanoid Influences Reassessed: The Importation of Generalized Inspiration and Cosmological Conventions.....	301
c. Period III Teotihuacan Influences Reassessed: Architectural Archaism Both to Display Connections and Announce Independence.....	313
IV. Closing Thoughts: Conventionalized Architecture as a Strategy of Ritual-Architectural Allurement.....	323
A. Complementary Means of Averting the Ephemeral and Idiosyncratic: The Mixed Results of an Inventory of Conventionality Alternatives.....	324
B. Conventionality and the Religion of Monte Albán: Allurement and the Socio-Existential Challenges of Early Urbanism.....	328
1. Conventionality, Unoriginality and Allurement: Affirming the Important but Limited Role of Architectural Conventions.....	329
2. Compulsory Reorientation and the Lack of Precedents: Engaging the “Religious” Challenges of Early Urbanism.....	330
CHAPTER THREE
Allurement via Astronomically-Aligned Architecture: Sky Phenomena, Calendars, Prediction and the Enhancement of Nature (Priority I-C).....
337
I. Astronomical Orientation as a Complementary Strategy of Allurement: Integrating Celestial Phenomena into the Ritual-Architectural Context.....	338

A. Mounting but Modest Appreciation of Ancient Oaxaca Astronomy: From Amateur to Academic Assessments of Astronomical Prowess.....	341
B. The Order and Agenda of the Chapter: Astronomy in Conjunction with Homology, Conventionality and the Enhancement of Nature.....	348
II. Astronomy in Conjunction with Homologized Orientation (priority I-A): The Creative, Purposeful and Hermeneutical Experience of the Sky.....	353
A. The Homology-Astronomy Pairing as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: The Sky as a “Cipher” for the All-Embracing Order of the World.....	355
B. The Homology-Astronomy Pairing in Mesoamerica: Cosmivision, Ritual and the Pursuit and/or Pretense of the Perfect Order.....	362
C. The Homology-Astronomy Pairing at Monte Albán: The Supporting Role of Celestial Observations and Alignments in the Symbolic City.....	368
1. The Strategic Siting of Monte Albán: Mountain Access to the Sky, and thus to the Sacred.....	369
2. The Strategic Configuration of Monte Albán Architecture: Revisiting the Unification of Calendrical Time and Architectural Space.....	373
3. The Strategic Timing of Monte Albán Rituals: Increasing the “Symbolic Relevance” and “Ritual Value” of Murals and Buildings.....	377
III. Astronomy in Conjunction with Conventionalized Orientation (priority I-B): Natural Sky Phenomena and Humanly-Constructed Calendars.....	379
A. The Astronomy-Conventionality Pairing as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: The Socio-Cultural and Religious Aspects of Calendars.....	381
B. The Astronomy-Conventionality Pairing in Mesoamerica: Orientation to Celestial Phenomena and/or Astro-Calendrical Conventions.....	384
C. The Astronomy-Conventionality Pairing at Monte Albán: Oaxaca’s Typical and Prototypical Astro-Calendrical Conventions.....	388
1. A Dual Incentive: Monte Albán’s Astro-Calendrical Alignments as Characteristically Mesoamerican and/or Uniquely Oaxacan.....	394
2. A Oaxaca Origin for the 260-Day Count: From Operative Astronomical Alignments to Conventionalized Prestige.....	400
3. Zapotec Astro-Calendrical Conventions at Teotihuacan: Reasserting a Local Oaxacan Identity in a non-Oaxacan Context.....	407
4. Zapotec Astro-Calendrical Conventions at Monte Albán: Retaining Zapotec Identity in the Geodesic Vertex Group.....	414
IV. Astronomy in Conjunction with Predictable Sky Phenomena: Celestial Prognostications and the Ritual-Architectural Enhancement of Nature.....	421
A. The Ritual-Architectural Enhancement of Nature as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: From (Sensations of) Passive Harmony to Active Control.....	423
B. The Ritual-Architectural Enhancement of Nature in Mesoamerica: Allurement via Celestial Prediction and Choreography.....	427

C. The Ritual-Architectural Enhancement of Nature at Monte Albán: The Two Most Prominent Cases.....	434
1. Building J at Monte Albán and Building O at Caballito Blanco: A Strategic Juxtaposition of Astronomic Allure and Political Content.....	435
a. A Brief History of Ideas about Building J: The Seeming Contradiction of Astronomic and Politico-Militaristic Purposes.....	438
b. Astronomical Hypotheses and Morphological Consequences: Periodic and Permanent Modes of Astro-Architectural Allurement.....	444
c. The Relationship of Building J to Building O at Caballito Blanco: Prototype, Imitator, Contemporary and/or Complement.....	449
d. Astronomy and Politics: Building J as a Perfect Exemplar of the Twofold Pattern of a Ritual-Architectural Event.....	452
2. Building P at Monte Albán: “Zenith Tubes,” “Astronomical Commemoration Complexes” and/or Horizontal Observatories.....	454
a. Building P as a Vertical “Sighting Tube”: Subterranean Viewing Chambers and the Architectural Enhancement of Sunlight.....	455
b. Building P as a “Horizontal Observatory”: “Astro-Commemoration Complexes” and Artificial Horizons.....	458
V. Closing Thoughts: Astronomically-Aligned Architecture as a Strategy of Ritual-Architectural Allurement.....	464
A. Interrogating the Layout of Monte Albán: Three Distinct, but also Complementary, Modes of Orientation.....	462
B. From Strategies of Allurement to Matters of Substantive Content: The Only-Preparatory Role of Astro-Architectural Alignments.....	467

INTRODUCTION TO PART II

Commemoration, Messages and Meanings: The Content of Ritual-Architectural Events at Monte Albán.....

I. Two General Points: Shifting Attention from (Front-Half) Strategies of Allurement to (Back-Half) Matters of Content, Substance and Information.....	474
A. Transformation and Productivity in the Experience of Architecture: The Presentation of Highly Specific, Often Obligatory Messages.....	475
B. Diversity in the Means and Messages of Commemorative Architecture: From Propagandistic Pedantry to Nuanced Presentations of Profound Principles.....	479
II. Three Cautionary Notes: Appreciating Other-Than-Political Messages, Non-Substantive Allurement and the Unanticipated Revalorization of Intended Meanings.....	483

A. Avoiding Inordinate Preoccupations with the Political: Anti-Reductionism, Mixed Priorities and the Multivalence of Meanings.....	484
B. Disentangling Front-Half Components from Back-Half Components: Substantive Content Recycled as Non-Substantive Allurement.....	485
C. Appreciating the Contingency of Intended Meanings: The Superabundance, Autonomy and the Unpredictability of Architectural Reception Histories.....	488
III. Part II Agenda—Four Long Chapters, Each with Dual Intentions: Engaging High-Profile Debates, Followed by Expressly Hermeneutical Analyses.....	491
A. Commemorations of Divinity (priority II-A): Engaging Incessant Debate about Zapotec Conceptions of Personal versus Impersonal Supernatural Entities.....	492
B. Sacred History (priority II-B): Engaging Javier Urcid’s Revisionist Ideas about Danzantes, “Conquest Slabs” and other Monumental Narrative Displays.....	494
C. Politics (priority II-C): Engaging the Particulars of the North Platform and Revisiting Debates about the Theocratic Nature of Monte Albán Polity.....	495
D. The Dead (priority II-D): Engaging the Distribution, Diversity and Historical Development of the Zapotec Tombs, Funerary Murals and Urns.....	496

CHAPTER FOUR

The Ritual-Architectural Commemoration of Divinity: Contentious Academic Theories but Consentient Supernaturalist Conceptions (Priority II-A).....

• The Driving Questions: Characteristically Mesoamerican and/or Uniquely Oaxacan Ideas about Supernatural Entities and Life Forces.....	501
• A Two-Block Agenda: The History of Ideas about, then the Ritual-Architectural Expression of, Ancient Zapotec Conceptions of Divinity.....	503
I. The History of Ideas about Ancient Zapotec Conceptions of Divinity: Phenomenological versus Social Scientific Approaches to Other Peoples’ God(s).....	506
A. Competing and Complementary Conceptions of Ancient Zapotec Religion: Many Gods, One God and/or No Gods.....	514
1. Ancient Oaxacan Polytheism: Greco-Roman Analogies and the Prevailing Presumption of a Pantheon of Personal Gods.....	519
a. Conventional (and Qualified) Views of Polytheism as Belief in Many Gods: Aztec Deities Extrapolated to Oaxaca.....	521
b. Oaxacan Polytheism Reimagined as “Multiple Experiences of the Sacred”: Ethnographer Miguel Bartolomé’s Contribution.....	528
2. Ancient Oaxacan Monotheism, Monolatry and/or Monistic-Pantheism: Diverse Arguments for Belief in a Supreme Being or Principle.....	531

a. Christianity-Derived Pre-Columbian Monotheism: Faith-Based Posits of Quetzalcoatl as Saint Thomas, Apostle of Jesus.....	532
b. “Primitive Monotheism,” “High Gods” and “Monolatry”: Mesoamerican Resonances of Wider Academic Debates.....	534
c. Elite-Formulated Monotheism and Monistic-Pantheism: Supreme Beings as the Esoteric Preserve of an Intelligentsia.....	539
d. Debates over Monotheism in Oaxaca: Congratulatory Contentions of a Zapotec Supreme Being and Minority Critics.....	541
e. Víctor de la Cruz’s Polemical Zapotec Monotheism and John Monaghan on a Pervasive Mesoamerican Monistic-Pantheism.....	547
3. Ancient Oaxacan Animism and/or Animatism: Affirming Impersonal Supernatural Energies and Undermining Polytheism-Monotheism Debates.....	554
a. Animism versus Animatism: Differentiating Between and/or Conflating Two Timeworn Terms.....	556
b. Qualified Affirmations of Animism: Alfredo López Austin on “Animistic Entities” and “Animistic Centers”.....	557
c. A “Spectrum of Animacy”: Molly Bassett on Shades of Gray in Native Discernments of Animate versus Animate Entities.....	561
d. Affirming Zapotec Animatism (and Deified Ancestors), while Rejecting Zapotec Gods: Joyce Marcus’s (Over)Correction.....	563
4. Coexistent Personal and Impersonal Supernatural Entities: Multiplicity and Not-Mutual Exclusion among Zapotec Divinity Conceptions.....	567
a. Alfredo López Austin’s “Both/And” Solution to the Divinity Question: Mediating the “Two Great Categories of Supernaturals”.....	568
b. Interim Conclusions and a Way Forward: Acknowledging, at a Minimum, Six Different Zapotec Conceptions of Divinity.....	571
B. Competing and Complementary Sources on Ancient Zapotec Conceptions of Divinity: Ethnography, Ethnohistory and Archaeology.....	574
1. Ethnographic Sources and Zapotec Conceptions of Divinity: The Post-Contact Vulnerability of Gods and Resilience of Animistic Forces.....	576
2. Ethnohistoric Sources and Zapotec Conceptions of Divinity: Four Fraught but Fortuitous and Fecund Bodies of Colonial-Era Writings.....	582
a. The Gods of Fray Juan de Córdova’s Vocabulario (1578): A Prim Pantheon or an Uneven Assemblage of Supernatural Entities.....	586
b. The Gods of the Relaciones Geográficas (1579-1581): Spanish Surveys, “Idols,” Local Patron Deities and Natural Spirits.....	601
c. The Gods of Fray G. de Balsalobre’s Inquisition Records (1656): Esoteric Deity Lists and a Pretense of Systematic Coherence.....	613

d. The Gods of Fray Francisco de Burgoa’s History of Oaxaca (1674): Antagonistic, Sanitized and Informing Interest in Indians.....	628
3. Archaeology and Zapotec Conceptions of Divinity: Funerary Urns as Gods, Priests, Companions, Royal Ancestors and/or “Open Sites”.....	642
a. Pre-Caso and Bernal Ideas about Urns: Deity Effigies, Purely Human Types, Animals, and/or Deified Rulers.....	647
b. Caso and Bernal’s Las Urnas de Oaxaca (1952): Stunningly Specific Hypotheses on the Evolution of the Zapotec Pantheon.....	653
c. Ideas after Las Urnas de Oaxaca : Deities, Alter Egos, Royal Ancestors, Deity Impersonators and/or Calendrical Patron Gods.....	657
C. Summary Thoughts and Methodological Cautions on the Study of Ancient Zapotec Divinity Conceptions: Idealization, Reification and False Systematization.....	665
1. The Main Obstacle: Imagining Neat Systematization Instead of Accepting Messy Empirical Accuracy—Lakota Parallels.....	667
2. A Way Forward: Acknowledging Zapotecs’ “Multiple Experiences of the Sacred” and Avoiding the Fallacies of Purity and Typicality.....	673
II. Four Variations on the Ancient Zapotec Ritual-Architectural Commemoration of Divinity: Unbuilt Divine Landscapes or Built God Bodies, Abodes and Abstractions	681
A. The Personification and/or Divination of Natural “Architectural” Features of the Landscape: Unbuilt Foci for Interacting with the Divine.....	686
1. Divination of the Natural Landscape as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: The Buildingless Sacred Space of Indians and Aborigines.....	688
2. Divination of the Natural Landscape in Oaxaca and Monte Albán: Three Ways of Understanding the Relations between Mountains and Divinity.....	693
a. Mountains as “Cosmic Axes”: Access to the Realm of the Gods and/or Maintenance of a Human-Divine Covenant.....	695
b. Mountains as Deity Residences: Unbuilt Hill Homes to Water Serpents and Other Supernatural Entities.....	697
c. Mountains as “Animate Entities”: Obligatory Reciprocity with Earth Goddesses, “Lords of the Hills” and “Thunder-Talkers”.....	700
d. Divination of the Unbuilt Mountain of Monte Albán: Natural Altepeme as Themselves Deities and “Animated Entities”.....	709
B. Architecture Conceived as the Actual Body of a Deity: Buildings as Animate Entities and/or Physical Embodiments of a God or Goddess.....	711
1. Architectural Deity Bodies as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Meru Temples, Effigy Mounds and Minoan Palaces as Embodiments of Divinity.....	712

2. Architecture as the Body of a Deity in Mesoamerica: Symbolic Death and Rebirth at Maya Earth-Monster Temples and Southwestern Kivas.....	716
3. Architecture as the Body of a Deity at Monte Albán: The Interchangeability of Natural and Built Altepeme and the Sacredness of Substructures.....	722
C. Architecture Conceived as the Abode of a Deity or Divine Presence: “Houses of God” as an Overworked But Undertheorized Possibility.....	728
1. Houses of God(s) as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Accommodating Deities in Earthly Replicas of Otherworldly Habitations.....	729
2. Houses of God(s) in Mesoamerica: Teocalli God-Houses, Supernatural Clients and One-to-One Correlations of Deities and Temples.....	735
3. Houses of God(s) at Monte Albán: Attracting and Accommodating Deities, Deified Ancestors and/or Impersonal Life Forces.....	742
D. Architecture Conceived as a Built Expression of the Attributes of Divinity: Evoking “Otherwise Hid” Qualities of God(s) and Ultimate Reality.....	750
1. Cross-Cultural Architectural Expressions of Divinity Attributes: Ostensible Strictures against Idolatry and Real Representations of God.....	752
2. Architectural Expressions of Divinity Attributes in Mesoamerica: Strategic Manipulations of Light, Geometry and Sheer Size.....	759
3. Architectural Expressions of Divinity Attributes at Monte Albán: The Complementarity of Temple Substructures and Upper Sanctuaries.....	763
III. Closing Thoughts: Discovering, Embodying, Housing and/or Expressing the Attributes of Many and Mixed Supernaturals.....	768
A. Ritual-Architectural Commemorations of Divinity at Monte Albán: The Ample Applicability of All Four Variations on the Theme.....	770
B. Contentious Academic Theories but Complementary Historical Phenomena: Meaning-Making Juxtapositions of Alternate Divinity Conceptions.....	774

CHAPTER FIVE

The Ritual-Architectural Commemoration of Sacred History: The Memorialization of Mythico-Historical Episodes, Individuals and Places

(Priority II-B).....785

- The Layout and Organization of the Chapter: From General Background, to Specific Background, to Hermeneutical Interpretations of Sacred History at Monte Albán.....788
 - A Preliminary History of Ideas about Zapotec Writing: From the Outset, Prevailing Assumptions of Historical rather than Mythological (or “Religious”) Content.....791
- I. General Theoretical Background—Five Approaches to Monte Albán’s Narrative Displays: Zapotec Writing, Myth, History and “Strategic Tinkering with the Past”.....798

A. Mircea Eliade on “Sacred History”: The Priority of Myth and the Inevitable Mythicization of Earthly and Political History.....	799
B. Javier Urcid on the “Contextual Approach”: Reconstituting “Narrative Compositions” and Tracking the Reuse of Monte Albán’s Inscribed Stones.....	807
C. Paul Ricoeur on Time and Narrative: “Emplotment,” “Followability” and the Necessity of a Congruous Beginning, Middle and End.....	814
D. Enrique Florescano on “Indigenous Memory”: Partisan Presentations of Origins, Ruler Genealogies and Boundaries in Primordial Titles and Lienzos	821
E. Bruce Lincoln on “Evoking Sentiment” via Myth: Inevitable Discrepancies between Intended Meanings and Received Meanings.....	827
II. Specific Oaxacan Background—Three Prominent Narrative Displays at Monte Albán: The Danzante Wall, the Building J Conquest Slabs, and the South Platform Cornerstones.....	834
A. The “Danzantes” as Sacred History: Considering and Reconsidering Monte Albán’s First, Foremost and Most Infamous Narrative Display.....	836
1. Earlier Interpretations of the Danzantes: A Protean Resource for Every Twentieth-Century Narrative (Re)construction of Monte Albán.....	838
a. Nineteenth and Early Twentieth-Century Views of the Danzantes: From Dupaix to Holmes, Batres and Villagra.....	839
b. Alfonso Caso’s Atypical Assessments: Mediating the Oaxacan but non-Zapotec Status of the Danzante Style.....	843
c. The Emergence of a Prevailing Consensus: Resigned and Revisionist Assessments of the Danzantes as Tortured Captives.....	848
2. Javier Urcid’s Alternative Interpretation of the Danzantes: Public Demonstrations of Devotion, Not Showcases of Military Prowess.....	856
a. Recontextualizing the Danzante Orthostats: A 294-Stone Oeuvre as Components of “Not One but Several Narratives”.....	857
b. Discerning the Original Conception and “Reading Order” of the Danzante Wall: Exhibiting a Multi-Tiered Military Fraternity.....	861
c. Refuting Standard Assessments of the Danzantes as Dead Captives: Depictions of Militaristic Victors rather than Victims.....	865
d. Urcid’s Alternative: A Widened Understanding of War and the Memorialization of Ceremonial Rather Combat Themes.....	869
3. The Danzantes as Narrative Sacred History: Open-ended Interpretive Clues from Eliade, Ricoeur, Florescano and Lincoln.....	875
B. The Building J “Conquest Slabs” as Sacred History: A Second Major Narrative Display, Constructed to a Surprisingly Similar Purpose.....	885
1. Earlier Interpretations of the “Conquest Slabs”: The Danzantes and Building J as Sequential Showcases of Military Triumphs and Threats.....	886

a. Alfonso Caso on Building J: Paired Astronomical and Militaristic Interests as a Sign of Balanced Intellectual-Political Competence.....	888
b. Competing Interpretations of the Conquest Slabs: Strictly Politico-Militaristic Readings as the Prevailing Alternative.....	892
2. Urcid and Joyce’s Alternative Interpretation of the “Conquest Slabs”: A Visual Display Coeval and Complementary with the Danzantes.....	900
a. Recontextualizing the “Conquest Slabs”: Contesting Building J as the Primary Location for the Finely Incised Orthostats.....	901
b. The Original Conception of the “Conquest Slabs”: Another Ancestor Memorial and Tutorial about War, Sacrifice and Reciprocity.....	905
c. The Dismantlement of the Original “Conquest Slab” Display: A Tension between Communal and Exclusionary Authority.....	910
d. Strategic Reuses of the “Conquest Slabs”: Superabundant Orthostats and the Reconciliation of Two Antagonistic Interpretations.....	914
3. Original and Reutilized “Conquest Slabs” as Sacred History: Open-ended Interpretive Clues from Eliade, Ricoeur, Florescano and Lincoln.....	918
a. Conquest Slabs as Mythicized History, Urban Cosmogony, Followable Narrative and/or an Announcement of Territorial Boundaries.....	920
b. General Methodological Lessons from the Specific Debate over the Building J Conquest Slabs: Indeterminacy and Revalorization.....	926
C. The South Platform Cornerstones as Sacred History: A Third Case Study and a Third Collection of Public Narrative Displays.....	928
1. Earlier Explorations of the South Platform Cornerstones: Modest Excavations, Questionable Reconstructions and Conflicting Interpretations.....	930
a. The Excavatory History of the Cornerstones: Batres’s Removal to Mexico City, Caso’s Analysis and Acosta’s Restoration.....	932
b. Early Twentieth-Century Interpretations of the Cornerstones: Batres’s, Caso’s and Acosta’s Assessments.....	939
c. Later Twentieth-Century Interpretations: Marcus’s Hypothesis of Zapotec Diplomacy and Teotihuacan Acquiescence.....	944
2. Javier Urcid’s Alternative Interpretation of the South Platform Cornerstones: Reconstructing the Life-Histories of the Monoliths.....	952
a. Recontextualizing the South Platform Cornerstones: A Three-Stage Succession of Decidedly Different Reuses.....	954
b. The Cornerstones in their Primary Context—i.e., Program B: Horizontal Lintels Honoring a Deceased and a Living Ruler.....	958
c. The Cornerstones in their Secondary Context—i.e., Program A: Upright Orthostats Memorializing Warfare, Capture and Sacrifice.....	963

d. The Cornerstones in their Tertiary Context—i.e., at the South Platform: “Offertory Markers” Instead of a Public Display	971
3. Programs B and A and the South Platform Cornerstones as Sacred History: Open-ended Clues from Eliade, Ricoeur, Florescano and Lincoln.....	978
a. Weak Examples of Mircea Eliade on “Mythicized History”: Time-bound rather than Timeless Narrative Compositions.....	979
b. Strong Examples of Paul Ricoeur on “Followable Narrative”: The Strategic “Emplotment” of Politico-Military Careers.....	983
c. Uneven Examples of Enrique Florescano on “Indigenous Memory”: Long-Standing, Mutually Supportive Means of Legitimation.....	985
d. Poignant Examples of Bruce Lincoln on Non-Compliant Responses: The Limits of Force and Elitist Coercion.....	991
e. Final Thoughts on Monte Albán’s Three Most Prominent Narrative Displays: Respecting the Superabundance of Sacred Architecture.....	995
III. Four Variations on the Ritual-Architectural Commemoration of Sacred History: Memorializing Cosmogonies, Episodes, Individuals and/or Places.....	997
A. Ritual-Architectural Commemorations of Cosmogony: Constructional Embodiments of Creation Stories.....	1000
1. Commemorations of Cosmogony as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Building as a Reiteration of the Creation of the World.....	1000
2. Commemorations of Cosmogony across Mesoamerica: Shared Themes and Group-Specific Stories of Origin.....	1005
3. Commemorations of Cosmogony in Oaxaca and Monte Albán: Four Clues to the Reiteration of Creation Stories in the Zapotec Capital.....	1012
a. Cosmogonies and Sacred Mountains: Recreating, and then Living in, an Orderly Microcosmos—Clues from Tehuantepec.....	1013
b. Cosmogonies and Identity Construction: The Prestige of Beginnings and “Strategy of Firstness”—Clues from Teotitlán del Valle.....	1017
c. Cosmogonies and a Sacred Covenant: Human-Divine Reciprocity as the Raison d’Être of Life—Clues from the Mixteca.....	1024
d. Cosmogonies and Socio-Political Integration: Virtues of Endorsing Multiple Creation Stories in One Context—Clues from Mitla.....	1031
e. Reiterating Clues and Consequences: Monte Albán “Polytheism” and the Acknowledgment of Diverse Cosmogonies.....	1038
B. Ritual-Architectural Commemorations of Mythic, Historic or Miraculous Episodes: Memorializing Otherworldly, This-Worldly and/or Ritual Occasions.....	1042
1. Commemorations of Mythico-Historic Episodes as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Remembering and/or “Reactualizing” Sacred History.....	1043
2. Commemorations of Mythico-Historic Episodes across Mesoamerica: Uneven Enthusiasm for Depicting Narrative Sacred History.....	1050

3. Commemorations of Mythico-Historic Episodes at Monte Albán: Emphasizing Recollections of Earthly and Ceremonial Occasions.....	1058
a. Prevailing Assumptions of “Historical” Content: An Overwhelming Preoccupation with Human Actors and Actions.....	1059
b. Four Qualifications: Authoritarian, Mythologized, Cosmogrammatic and Didactic Depictions of Historic Episodes.....	1063
c. A Fifth Qualification: Emphases on the Meta-Commemoration of the Ritual Commemoration of Historic Episodes.....	1071
C. Ritual-Architectural Commemorations of Mythical or Mythico-Historic Individuals: Identifiable Rulers, Soldiers, Elders, Ancestors, Captives and Visitors.....	1078
1. Commemorations of Mythico-Historic Individuals as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Memorializing Who They Are versus What They Did.....	1078
2. Commemorations of Mythico-Historical Individuals across Mesoamerica: Major Contrasts among Olmecs, Mayas and Teotihuacanos.....	1082
a. Olmec Colossal Heads as the Ritual-Architectural Commemoration of Mythico-Historic Individuals par Excellence.....	1082
b. Teotihuacan as the Grand Counter-example to the Commemoration of Mythico-Historic Individuals.....	1085
c. Classic Maya Commemorations of Specific Teotihuacano Rulers Never Named in the Central Mexican Capital.....	1089
3. Commemorations of Mythico-Historical Individuals at Monte Albán: Mitigated, Masked and/or Unmasked Authoritarian Priorities.....	1093
a. Identifiable Individuals on the Danzante Wall: Memorializing the Rank and File, Perhaps to Mask Authoritarian Control.....	1095
b. Identifiable Individuals on the “Conquest Slabs”: Uncertain Evidence of Memorializing Rulers rather than the Rank and File.....	1102
c. Identifiable Individuals on Programs B and A: Memorializing Rulers, Subordinates and Unmasked Authoritarian Control.....	1107
d. Modeling Rulership but also Followership: Three Modes of Elite Leadership, Three Modes of Non-Elite Compliance.....	1111
D. Ritual-Architectural Commemorations of Mythico-Geographic Places, Sites or Locations: The Enduring Significance of the Once-Great Zapotec Capital.....	1117
1. Commemorations of Mythico-Geographic Places as a Cross-Cultural Phenomenon: Memorializing the Revered Real Estate of Sacred History.....	1118
2. Commemorations of Mythico-Geographic Places across Mesoamerica: Respecting Where They Are and Where They (Supposedly) Came From.....	1125
a. Pilgrimage and Migration: The Religious Experience of Personified Landscapes and of Places One May Never Have Visited.....	1126
b. The Mythico-Historical Paradigm of the Toltecs and Tollan: Appropriating Origin Places and Urban Pedigrees Not One’s Own...	1131

3. Commemorations of Mythico-Geographic Places in Oaxaca: Marten Jansen on Postclassic Monte Albán as a Mythic Model and Resource for Mixtecs...1136

- a. The Enduring Prestige of Collapsed Cities: Toward an Alternate Account of the Zapotec Capital's Demise and Denouement.....1138
- b. A Mixtec "Crisis Cult" at Monte Albán: The Belated (Postclassic) Arrival of Quetzalcoatl and the Toltec Heritage.....1140
- c. Monte Albán' as a "Multiple Site": The Plurality and Specificity of Geographic and Constructed Features within the City.....1145
- d. Monte Albán's Status in Mixtec Codices: A Dying City Transformed into a Living Resource and Timeless Place of Origins.....1150
