Dr. Anna Ball is Professor of Agricultural Education and Leadership at the University of Missouri (MU) and is currently a Faculty Fellow for Faculty Development in their Office of the Provost. Prior to her role with the Provost, Dr. Ball was a Faculty Fellow in the MU Office of Research focusing on broader impacts. On MU's campus, Dr. Ball is not only sought after by college of agriculture faculty, but other university faculty as well, to help them develop their education/outreach/evaluation components of their grants. MU has been a leader in the development of the Broader Impacts Network, which receives funding from the National Science Foundation (NSF).
