Take the time to take your training online.

Environmental Health and Safety has updated many of their online safety training programs to the new BuckeyeLearn system. This system is a university-wide online training tool, allowing learning and training opportunities to be easily accessed by the university community of faculty, staff, and student employees. Some of the available safety trainings include:

- Building Emergency Action Plan
- Electrical Safety
- Fire Extinguisher Use
- Hazard Communication
- Personal Protective Equipment

and many more!

Complete your safety training at ehs.osu.edu/training.