What opportunities have the different segments of the health industry missed in preparing for a pandemic and what should we start doing to guard against similar outcomes to future pandemics?
Guest Panelists

Nicole Gier, LCSW, focuses her work on adapting and delivering evidence-based, contextual behavioral therapy across the continuum of interdisciplinary healthcare settings.

Joshua Gottlieb, PhD is an Associate Professor at the University of Chicago Harris School of Public Policy. His research in applied microeconomics focuses on the economics of the health care system.

Colleen M. Grogan PhD, is a professor at the University of Chicago School of Social Service Administration. Dr. Grogan has years of experience studying the US health care system including the role of private provision and the structure of public entitlements. She has written extensively on the history and current politics of the US Medicaid program.

Monica Peek, MD, MPH, MS, FACP is an Associate Professor in the Section of General Internal Medicine at the University of Chicago, where she provides clinical care, teaches, and does health services research in the area of health disparities.